The arrangement will provide, however, by means of a special protocol a distinct declaration (that this temporary occupation of a bort on the Lynn canal by British customs officers shall in no way affect the final settlement of the boundary question but both British and American interests and claims will be fully reserved. The use of the port is to be temporary. The question of the ownership of the disputed strip is finally settled to the satisfaction of both countries.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank of England Is Getting Beaten New York, August 27 .- The Times' London financial correspondent cables: The agricultural display was noe: to fank of England is gradually getting beaten in its attempt to sustain money market aries. It has borrowed freely from the market this week in the hope of maintaining discounts at its minimum, but has failed, and the working rate is about 31-4

The agricultural display was noe: to see the different varieties of large ears of corn would make one think he was in Central Illinois. Garden products of all varieties were abundant; melons and pumpkins too heavy for one man to carry. The racing was creditable to the fair; it would have been classed good in older fairs than this.

Many Indians from the Territory were in attendance.

per cent, with adownward tendency. I be-lieve money must become cheaper for scv-eral reasons chief among which is the stagnation of business produced by politics in South Africa and France. Our manu-factur, ing industries are kept in full ac-tivity by orders booked before either of these sources of anxiety become acute, but orders are not now pressing forward and urless the clouds soon disporse we shall have an outcry about the scarcity of work, with efforts to reduce wages, which are sure to produce labor troubles. sure to produce labor troubles.

As for stock exchange speculation, it can not get scope anywhhere, and even in American rails tre public is doing scarcely arything. It is impossible to keep the discount at 31-2 per cent when seven days' items can be had at 21-4 per cent.
